PENSACOLA JUNIOR COLLEGE

You can get there from here.

President's Message

Pensacola Junior College faced challenges and reaped rewards during the 2001-2002 academic year.

We, as a nation, suffered through the tragic events of September 11 and recovered with a resolve to move forward, not backward. In spite of the resulting economic downturn, the college also moved forward, enrolling more than 28,000 students and graduating almost 2,000 students who moved into upper division colleges and universities or entered the workforce to help in the economic recovery.

Faced with budget cuts and an unsettling outlook, our dedicated faculty continued to do what they do best — teach — and our students moved forward:

- The PJC Brain Bowl Team won the state championship.
- The Lady Pirates softball team was voted Academic Team of the Year in the Panhandle Conference and was recommended for the National Academic Team of the Year.
- The Robinson Scholars attended their first International Summer School at Cambridge University in England.

With community support, our building programs advanced, and the college celebrated the opening of the Charles A. Atwell Health Sciences Complex and the Anna Lamar Switzer Center for Visual Arts. Each of these facilities house state-of-the-art technology to keep our programs in visual arts and health careers moving forward.

PJC's vision that no student would be turned away for lack of scholarship dollars was moved into the spotlight with a visit from former first lady Barbara Bush. Mrs. Bush helped launch the Foundation's new Universal Scholarship and Adult Literacy Fund with an afternoon reading session for local children and an evening lecture.

Our faculty and staff continued to demonstrate their commitment to this college and community. They made record contributions to the United Way, exceeding the college goal by $5,000. They strongly supported the American Cancer Society Relay for Life on both the Milton and Pensacola campuses and continued support of the March of Dimes and the American Heart Association.

Certainly, the most difficult challenge of the past year was our ability to cope with the loss of our president, Dr. Charles Atwell, in January. However, Dr. Atwell left a very capable leadership team that has worked tirelessly to ensure that the college would continue to progress.

For the past 54 years, PJC has been a vital part of this community, and the college will continue to serve the families and businesses of this community well into the future.

Sincerely,

G. Thomas Delaino
PJC President

NICKELSEN ENDOWED TEACHING CHAIR GOES TO JOE DIAMOND

Joe Diamond, professor of Emergency Medical Technology at PJC, has been awarded the Margaret Moore Nickelsen Endowed Teaching Chair for Health Sciences.

Diamond is the second recipient of the three-year award, which was established by Eric Nickelsen to recognize excellence in teaching. The award provides funding for professional development activities.

"I feel very honored to have this award and very excited about the possibilities it opens up for the EMT/Paramedic program," Diamond said. "For the first time, I'll have funding that allows travel and time to look at different EMT/Paramedic programs, to learn new things to bring back to the college."

Diamond has taught in the Emergency Medical Technician program at PJC since 1980. More than 95 percent of the students who complete his course successfully pass the state licensure examination for EMT/Paramedic.

2001-2002 ACADEMY OF TEACHING
EXCELLENCE INDUCTEES

The Academy of Teaching Excellence was established in 1986 by Charles Atwell to recognize outstanding faculty. In 1994, the Academy also began to honor one outstanding new faculty member each year.

Athletics

The athletics program at Pensacola Junior College works hard to prepare team members for a competitive sports season and a successful academic career.

Pensacola Junior College is a member of the National Junior College Athletic Association, Region VIII, and a member of the Florida Community College Activities Association. The PJC athletic program has produced many conference, state and national championship teams. Intercollegiate sports include women's and men's basketball, baseball, softball, and women's volleyball. Student athletes come to PJC on scholarship from throughout the United States and abroad. Maintaining academic excellence while playing to win is a priority of the college's athletic program.

- For the first time since 1991, the PJC Pirates went to the State Baseball Tournament. The Pirates placed third in the state tournament with wins over Lake City, Brevard and Seminole Community Colleges. The Pirates set a team record with 39 wins this season — the most ever in PJC's history.

- Kristen Dell, PJC volleyball player, was voted Player of the Year at the State Junior College Volleyball Tournament.

- The Lady Pirates softball team was voted Academic Team of the Year in the Panhandle Conference and was recommended for the National Academic Team of the Year.

Coach Vicki Carson earned her 400th win.

Program and Department News

At PJC, the diversity of our students is matched by an extraordinarily wide range of course offerings.

PJC's course offerings reflect the needs of the community with 40 areas of concentration offered for the associate of arts degree, along with the basic program required for transfer to an upper level institution. Thirty-five associate of applied science and nine associate of science programs were offered for students whose career interests require specialized study, and 20 certificate programs were offered for students preparing for direct entry into the job market. The college also offers Adult Basic Education, General Education Development, English for Speakers of Other Languages and an adult high school as part of its course offerings.

Among the programs' and departments' accomplishments:

- PJC Milton campus partnered with the University of West Florida and Santa Rosa County District Schools to provide students an opportunity through dual enrollment to pursue an associate of arts degree at PJC then transfer to the University of West Florida to pursue a bachelor of arts degree with a specialization in mathematics/general sciences with middle school certification.

- PJC began offering a certificate in professional writing in the fall semester 2001. The 15-credit sequence of courses enables people to improve their skills in report writing, collaborative writing of other technical documents, computer graphic design and editing.
- PJC's Zoo Animal Technology program has gained acceptance in the conservation partner category of the American Zoo and Aquarium Association. The program also has established two new emphasis areas within the advanced technical certificate — Zoo Research which is conducted at Zoo Atlanta, and Lubee Foundation and Herpetology to be conducted at Kentucky Reptile Zoo.
- In November 2001, the NAS Center moved into the renovated Education Center on NAS Pensacola. The base center houses PJC's administrative offices and academic computing lab. The Education Center also houses the Navy College Office, the other on-base colleges and the base library.

- The Music and Theatre Department has begun using a new system of piano accompaniments for soloists called Smart Music. It allows students to download piano accompaniments for classical solos into the computer. The student attaches a microphone to his instrument and the computer generated accompaniment "follows" the student, so if the student slows the tempo the computer does the same. This system allows the students to become familiar with the piano accompaniment before they rehearse with staff accompanists.
- Student Activities has been renamed Student Leadership and Activities. The emphasis has shifted from music and game programming to leadership and volunteerism.

- The Leadership Education and Development (LEAD) program was established to help students develop leadership skills and personal growth. The program requires that students attend five Leadership Lectures, an overnight leadership retreat, and complete 40 volunteer hours during the academic year.
- The Coffee House music series and the Bearing Gifts program were recognized as outstanding programs by Florida Leader magazine.

The PJC Zoo Animal Technology program became a conservation partner of the American Zoo and Aquarium Association and partnered with Zoo Atlanta and the Kentucky Reptile Zoo to enhance advanced technical certificate offerings.

Community Service

PJC students and staff experience learning beyond the walls of the classroom through involvement in the community. Contributing time and talent to community causes has been a standing tradition at PJC.

Once again, PJC students and staff contributed more than $35,000 to United Way during the 2001-2002 school year and participated in the United Way Day of Caring. Additionally, PJC had a number of employees walk in the American Heart Association Heart Walk.

Each year, PJC provides its facilities for many community events including the American Cancer Society Relay for Life and the March of Dimes WalkAmerica.

Due to the number of students and staff who want to volunteer, the Student Leadership and Activities Office established a Volunteer Center in September 2001. The center coordinates requests for volunteers from community organizations with students and staff who want to work in the community.

- The aftermath of the tragic events of September 11 left all Americans flooded with emotions. The PJC Student Government Association held a candlelight vigil to help the community cope. Nearly 200 participants lit candles and walked around the PJC track to symbolize how America would get through the event together.
- Marcia Williams, Warrington campus provost, received the Charles F. Tate Jr. Volunteer of the Year Award from the American Lung Association of Florida.
- Larry Yax, LRC district dean, was named Board Member Emeritus for the Epilepsy Services of Northwest Florida. This is the first time this honor was bestowed in the 28-year history of the organization.
- Kathleen Shelton, Secondary Education, served as a loaned executive for the annual United Way Campaign of Escambia County.
- The PJC Education Club collected school supplies and funds for Semmes Elementary School as part of their community service project.
- PJC Radiography students and faculty participated in the “Vascular Screening — Legs for Life” at Sacred Heart Hospital in March and June. More than 150 people were screened for peripheral vascular disease at each session.
- PJC Culinary students assisted local chefs in the Summer Sizzler fundraiser sponsored by the American Culinary Federation to raise money for the Chef and Child Foundation and scholarships for culinary students.
- PJC hosted the 11th Annual Minority Honors Program. The event honors minority seniors from Escambia and Santa Rosa counties with a grade point average of 3.0 or higher.
- WSRE-TV teamed up with WEAR-TV and hosted a fund raising telethon in the wake of the tragic September 11 events. More than $200,000 was raised locally for the relief efforts.

In Memoriam

Charles A. Atwell, Ed.D.
PJC President, 1998-2002

Former Pensacola Junior College President Charles A. Atwell died on Aug. 13, 2002, after a courageous battle with cancer. Dr. Atwell assumed duties as the fourth president of PJC on April 16, 1998 and his inauguration coincided with the college's 50th anniversary on Sept. 8, 1998. He had served as PJC's executive vice president since 1986.

Dr. Atwell is fondly remembered as an exceptional leader, a community servant, a valuable friend, and a dedicated educator who loved the college and expected only the best from his faculty, staff and students.

Recognized throughout the state as a champion of Florida's community colleges, Dr. Atwell also received local accolades for his involvement in numerous community organizations.

In April 2002, the college's multi-million dollar medical training facility on the Warrington campus was dedicated as the Charles A. Atwell Health Sciences Complex.

During his tenure at PJC, Dr. Atwell established the PJC Academy of Teaching Excellence and led the college in an unprecedented capital campaign raising more than $5 million dollars for the PJC Foundation. He also was instrumental in establishing the new Universal Scholarship and Adult Literacy Fund.

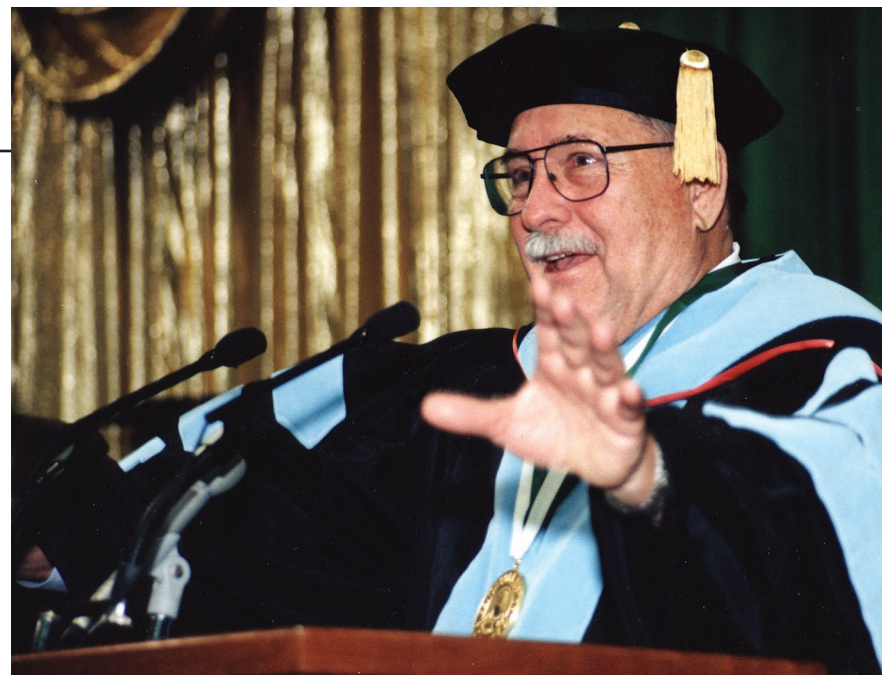

Dr. Atwell was preceded in death by his wife of 44 years, Marlene, in 2000. He leaves two sons, two daughters, nine grandchildren and his father. Surrounded by his family, Dr. Atwell dedicated the Marlene S. Atwell Chair of Family Values on May 6, 2001, in memory of his loving wife and PJC's first lady.

“In 1991, my husband was stationed on a ship when Desert Storm began. Dr. Atwell called me to make sure that my husband was alright and that I was alright. That he remembered my husband’s name and where he was had a big impact on me, and he was like that with everyone. He had an open door policy with faculty and always made us feel like we were an important part of the college. He was so encouraging in so many areas, he especially wanted faculty to continue their education, attend conferences, and make the most of their opportunities.”

— Pat Horacek,
Mathematics Professor

“Dr. Atwell had a profound impact on the college both during his years as vice president and as president. His creation of the Academy of Teaching Excellence was just one of the big ways that he recognized the contributions of others to the success of the college. Another, smaller, more personal recognition was his astonishing ability to know everybody’s name and something about them. It was a humanizing trait that not many of the rest of us have mastered. We in the Visual Arts Department are, of course, especially grateful for his efforts in making the Anna Lamar Switzer Center for Visual Arts a reality. That achievement will be a lasting gift to the college.”

— Allan Peterson,
Visual Arts Department Head
and Gallery Director

“As a journalism teacher and newspaper advisor, I have always felt grateful for Dr. Atwell’s support of a free student press. He always had time for student journalists, he was always open, candid and helpful. Dr. Atwell set a great example for the employees at PJC. His integrity and commitment to the institution were beyond question. I could sense that he cared even about the small things like routine student awards, PJC concerts and plays, and basketball, to name a few. I will miss him. He leaves some very big shoes to fill.”

— Thom Botsford,
Journalism Professor

“Dr. Atwell’s untiring dedication and hard work exemplified the unselfish love he has for the college and the community. He has accomplished what some do not do easily, and he has earned the respect and admiration of those fortunate enough to have been a part of PJC during his leadership.”

— Pat Crews,
Staff Assistant to the President

PJC Foundation

“One of the best things you can give is an opportunity for education. In return, there will be better citizens in your community.”

— Barbara Bush

FIRST LADY OF LITERACY CAMPAIGNS FOR NEW SCHOLARSHIP FUND

PJC rolled out the red, white and blue carpet for former first lady Barbara Bush as she helped launch the Foundation’s new Universal Scholarship and Adult Literacy Fund.

Diane Appleyard, PJC Foundation president, welcomes Barbara Bush, who helped launch the new Universal Scholarship and Adult Literacy Fund in February.

Bush began her visit by reading “Thank You, Mr. Falker” to more than 200 area children. That evening, Bush addressed an audience of more than 800 in the Louis A. Ross Health and Sports Center.

“One of the best things you can give is an opportunity for education. In return, there will be better citizens in your community,” said Bush. Bush’s appearance raised more than $100,000 toward the goal of $1 million for the new scholarship fund. The Universal Scholarship is intended for those students who do not qualify for financial aid, yet who do not have the financial means to afford tuition.

The Appleyards became Foundation Fellows—Diane, John, Eleanor, Dick, Carolyn, Leslie and Kate.

APPLEYARD FAMILY HONORED FOR COMMUNITY SERVICE

The John and Eleanor Appleyard family received the PJC Foundation Fellows Award in recognition of their many years of commitment to education and service to PJC and the community. Through their generosity and actions, the Appleyard family’s diverse talents have benefited PJC in a variety of ways.

John and Eleanor actively supported the recent capital campaign and have shown their commitment to the community with the establishment of the Apple Corps Foundation in 1991. Both John and daughter, Diane, have served as Foundation presidents. Diane also has served as District Board of Trustees chair and was instrumental in the success of the college’s 50th anniversary celebration. Their son, Dick, and his wife, Carolyn, have been active on the WSRE-TV Board of Directors and capital campaign as well as working with the PJC Foundation on its advertising and public relations projects.

HOLIDAY EVENT CELEBRATES SUCCESS

At the Foundation’s December Grande Buffet, PJC President Charles Atwell cited unprecedented growth in scholarships, endowments, teaching chairs, academic programs and construction projects. Some of those include:

- The Ami Lee Wilder Memorial Scholarship, the college’s first memorial endowed scholarship, assisted 11 students this year.
- The Chadbourne Foundation Endowed Scholarship began as a civil engineering scholarship helping four students per year; now it assists up to 34 students enrolled in any program of study.
- The Robinson Honors program, established in memory of Sandra and Grover Robinson III, has grown to more than 100 students, all of them Bright Futures Scholars.
- Five teaching chairs have been established, and two have been awarded.

Building for the Future

PJC's vision for top-notch facilities could not become a reality without generous support from the community.

ANNA LAMAR SWITZER CENTER FOR VISUAL ARTS GRAND OPENING

A spring grand opening was held for the newly renovated and expanded Anna Lamar Switzer Center for Visual Arts. The expansion and renovation, the result of a $1 million gift by the Switzer and Reilly families, features a new lecture hall, expanded photography areas, an expanded art gallery and completely renovated interior of the buildings. Internationally known landscape photographer Clyde Butcher was the featured speaker at the grand opening event.

ATWELL HEALTH SCIENCES COMPLEX DEDICATION

The Charles A. Atwell Health Sciences Complex was dedicated in April. The complex is comprised of three buildings which encompass the college's new state-of-the-art medical training facility. Together, the buildings will house PJC's 18 health related programs. The buildings include an ambulance bay, emergency room facilities and a surgical suite as well as new laboratories, classrooms and a mock hospital equipped with the latest technologically advanced systems. Faculty and students began using the new facility in the summer.

New and renovated buildings enhance program offerings — the Anna Lamar Switzer Center for Visual Arts, Pensacola campus, and the Charles A. Atwell Health Sciences Complex, Warrington campus.

WSRE-TV

From classroom to family room, WSRE-TV is television with a purpose.

Since 1967, WSRE-TV has aired nationally acclaimed PBS shows, programs of local and regional interest, and telecourses. More than 70,000 Gulf Coast households turn to WSRE-TV weekly for top quality, violence-free, non-commercial programming.

- WSRE-TV introduced a new era in public service television when it became Florida's second and the nation's 32nd PBS station to begin the conversion from analog to digital transmission. WSRE-TV's ongoing commitment to the digital revolution will ultimately lead to high definition television, multicasting, and interactive programming for Gulf Coast communities.
- The station launched the Future-Vision Capital Campaign with a goal of raising $2 million to purchase the digital infrastructure needed to complete this transition and enable WSRE-TV to produce digital programs.

- WSRE-TV is one of 40 stations chosen to produce local segments of ZOOM, a PBS children's program featuring children who volunteer to make a difference in their community. Nine segments produced by WSRE-TV were selected to air on the national program.

- The station also continued to host its annual National Teacher Training Institute as one of only 26 sites nationwide chosen to participate. This professional development workshop is designed to help teachers learn how to use PBS programs to enhance curriculum.
- As part of its ongoing community outreach, WSRE hosted Family Reading Fun Day, Saturday Science, the Shining Star Awards ceremony, the Promoting Parenting Power conference, and the Reading Rainbow Young Writers and Illustrators contest.

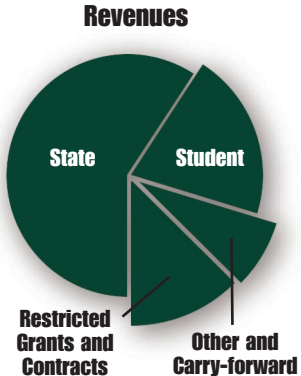

Students from Oriole Beach Elementary participate in a local production for ZOOM; PBS character Arthur™ encourages kids to read during Family Reading Fun Day at Cordova Mall; Mr. McFeely travels from Mister Rogers' Neighborhood® to greet WSRE-TV fans at Family Expo.
