Google Books provides the full text of books no longer covered by copyright, and some pages and snippets from other books. The books in the database are the result of Google's scanning project of several major national and international libraries as well as arrangements with publishers. Google Books can be a valuable source of information, as long as the user understands that not all books will be completely available, that Google is a business, and that printing of books with some pages or snippets is not possible. Some older issues of popular magazines are also available. To make the best use of *Google Books, use the Advanced Search at: http://books.google.com/advanced_book_search

The Google Books basic search page at http://books.google.com/ allows you to enter a search. The Advanced Search is available after an initial basic search from the Gears icon in the upper right of the hits screen.

At Search: select All books to see all books indexed; Limited preview and full view for those books that have some content (sometimes called snippet) and all content available; and Full view only for books that have all content available.

At Content: select All content for both Books and Magazines, or select Books, or Magazines.

Search options include all generic Google advanced search options (at the top) and Title, Author, Publisher, Subject, Publication Date and ISBN below (left). Use only the search options needed. The generic search options are best when looking for books for which no title, author, etc., is known.
Results clearly show Full view, Preview (or Snippet, which is generally less than a page) and No Preview.

Full view book

Full view books are downloadable as .pdf files.
