

What is Google Scholar?

Google's attempt to create "a simple way to broadly search for scholarly literature."

What's in it?

- Articles from professional & industrial organizations, academic presses, public online scholarly resources that have agreed to participate
- Articles from .edu sites
- "Scholarly" (peer reviewed) articles from public web
- Articles that require payment
- References (citations) to articles & books found in publications identified by Google

What do you get?

- Text of some articles
- Links to books in Google Books
- References to related articles
- Lists of papers which cite an article
- Links to articles that require payment
- Links to connect to your library's databases for the text of the article (see Setting Preferences to Pensacola State College on next page)

How do you search?

- Same as Google
- Advanced Search allows search by author, publication, date
- Results sorted by popularity

What should you know about Scholar?

- No list of publishers/publications
- Frequency of updates unknown
- Coverage unknown
- No definition of what is considered scholarly
- Covers only a portion of scholarly literature
- No magazines or newspapers (this is changing)
- Gaps in coverage

Where can you get MORE & FREE articles?

- Your local library article databases at <http://library.pensacolastate.edu> at the Databases tab, Project Starter Databases
- Log in with your Pensacola State ID barcode number and the last 4 numbers of your Social Security number
