Methods of Evaluation:

At minimum, the instructor will cover content which aligns with statewide and institutional learning outcomes for the course. The instructor will measure student performance using the following.

Assigned Reading(s) & Pearson Chapter Test(s) – (40%)

Students are required and assigned to complete one Chapter Test each week that will be administered through our online Canvas course that is linked to this in-person ARH 2000 – Humanities Art course, section, and the assigned Pearson text. This weekly assignment will cover lectures, readings, videos, discussion(s) and the cumulative online test for the individually assigned chapter, which is due at the 'close' of each week (Sunday, 11:59pm). The Canvas modules are not subject to change and student must maintain the overall scheduled pace of the course and late work will receive an overall deduction in the potential grade. Any proposed deadline extension must be approved by the instructor prior the assignments due date.

Midterm Project / Group Assignment – (20%)

Students are required and assigned to complete a Midterm Project. The Midterm Project will be completed and presented during the 7th week of the 'traditional' semester and is designated as a group project involving as many as 3 students. However, the student may choose to work individually on the assignment, but the amount of expected workload and contribution remains the same no matter the group dynamics. The Midterm Project will be thoroughly discussed for expectations, successful outcomes, timeline, and other pertinent information during our scheduled meetings and submitted to Canvas as well. The Midterm Project will connect to the course materials covered in class as well as current events related to our content matter and students will make connections to the impact of the humanities, both past and present while finding reoccurring themes between both.

Final Project / Group Assignment – (20%)

Students are required and assigned a Final Project that is in addition to the Midterm Project assignment and will be a culmination project to expand upon the previously researched and presented Midterm Project. The Final Project will reiterate the thematic and underlying historical and contemporary connections surrounding art, humanities, society, and culture. The Final Project will utilize the same structure of 3 students in a group with individualized workloads, however the group participants must not remain the same as the Midterm Project group.

Active Engagement & Participation – (10%)

Students are required to attend and actively engage in the scheduled classroom meetings each week and maintain an appropriate amount of participation in the presented materials and discussions. Being present, alert, contributive, and involved in the coursework is required.

Attendance – (10%)

Attendance will be recorded each day, via Canvas, at the starting of the scheduled meeting. Students may review and monitor their attendance progress in Canvas and should fully understand that on-time arrival is just as expected and important as not leaving prior to class meeting dismissal to the overall assigned attendance grade for the semester. Being late to the class meeting pattern will also result in grade deductions and will be discussed at the beginning of the semester start.

Grade Scale:

| | | |
|-----|---|----------|
| A | = | 90 – 100 |
| B+ | = | 87 – 89 |
| B | = | 80 – 86 |
| C+ | = | 77 – 79 |
| C | = | 70 – 76 |
| D+ | = | 67 – 69 |
| D - | = | 60 – 66 |
| F | = | 00 – 59 |

Attendance / Tardiness / Withdrawal:

The following attendance policy has been implemented in the best interest of the student and is in accordance with the PSC Attendance Policy detailed in the Student Handbook.

"Attendance" is mandatory, even in an online class. You are required to log into the course at least twice a week and participate. Class participation is an important part of the learning process and is therefore expected of each student.

Logging in and then immediately logging out is not "coming to class" and will not be counted as attendance. You must log in and participate; read and respond to the discussions posted, review the lecture notes and PowerPoints, participate in the practice activities, check your course email, etc.

The analytics tool within the course management system will be used to make sure students are accomplishing these tasks.

Students who do not attend during the first week of class may be withdrawn. See the No-Show Procedure for the First Week of Classes.

F Grade Assigned Early:

A grade of F, which will appear on the permanent record, may be assigned by an instructor before the end of the term, in any of the following circumstances.

After the 70th percent point of a course, an instructor may assign an F, which will appear on the permanent record, to a student who has stopped attending class. Instructors will not withdraw a student for excessive absences.

An instructor may assign a grade of F, which will appear on the permanent record, at any point during the term for the student who has plagiarized or committed academic cheating of any kind.

An instructor may assign a grade of F, which will appear on the permanent record, at any point during the term for the student who stops attending a course being attempted for the third time.

PirateMail is the official method of communication, and students must use Piratemail when communicating with the College.
